

The Republican

Springfield, Massachusetts

The Republican

Springfield, Massachusetts
New addition and renovation

The new 70,000 square foot addition maintains the predictable geometry of the existing building along the front side until it turns the corner, where it is transformed into the sinuous "s" curve of the north facade.

The new layout arranges the press and its working spaces in a way that allows operators an unobstructed view of both the press the downstream processes involved with packaging and distribution. The large expanse of north-facing glass creates a pleasant and safe working environment by maximizing daylight.

From an aesthetic standpoint the new addition is integrated with the existing building through creative reuse of the existing pre-cast tee skin, designed to highlight the contrast between new and old and focus attention on the new state-of-the-art, high speed press.

Services Provided:

- Programming
- Masterplanning
- Architecture & Engineering

