To whom it may concern:

I have had the pleasure of working with Dario DiMare for nearly a year on a project to expand our present building or construct a complete new facility for The Bulletin. To date the work has included a feasibility study to determine "greenfield" possibilities or expansion onto adjacent property presently owned by The Bulletin, existing conditions and some general programming.

One of many pleasures has been Dario's vast knowledge of our industry. We found him to be quite knowledgeable about equipment and building requirements as well as all operational needs. His knowledge of the newspaper industry and Architecture it is quite apparent and I'm convinced our company will benefit from this experience.

Dario is easy to communicate with and his attention to detail makes the difficult task of planning and design a pleasure. His energy, humor and enthusiasm will make the rest of the project much more enjoyable as well. We're looking forward to having him on our team.

I would personally recommend Dario Designs to any company considering building or expanding a newspaper or commercial printing facility.

Sincerely,

Mike Greening
Operations Manager
The Bulletin
